THE SCHOOL BOARD

Seated—Paul Rohrbaugh, Charles S. Black (Pres.), L. C. Keefauver (Superintendent of Schools), Ralph Z. Oyler.

Standing—Arthur E. Hutchison, Charles P. Bender, Mahlon P. Hartzell (Sec.), Charles M. Sheely (V. Pres.).

Members of the school board are truly the guardians of the birthright of the girls and the boys of today, who determine the destiny of the nation of tomorrow.

TO THE CLASS OF 1945

Gloom still overshadows most of the world because of the ravages of war. Lives and resources have been sacrificed to retain our democratic way of life. In time possibly most of the material things will be replaced. This cannot be true of the lost lives, the maimed bodies, and the warped minds.

The survival of civilization is dependent upon making war impossible in the future. It will call for many sacrifices. It will demand clear thinking. Here as in war there can be no slackers. Everyone must give his best. Everyone has something to contribute toward making his community, his nation, his world a better place. What will be your contribution?

L. C. KEEFAUVER
Superintendent of Schools

DOCTOR LLOYD C. KEEFAUVER

GUILE W. LEFEVER

TO THE CLASS OF 1945

You people who finish high school are fortunate as many have not had this opportunity. Even this amount of schooling will not be sufficient to enable you to meet the demands and solve the problems in the immediate future.

I urge you to continue your training should you have the opportunity.

All honor to those of you who enter the armed forces wherever you may be.

G. W. LEFEVER
Principal of high school

FACULTY MEMBERS ON LEAVE

Major J. Melchoir Sheads entered the infantry in January, 1942. He received his training at Camp Claiborne, Miss., Camp Shelby, Miss., and Fort Benning, Ga. He is now in the European war theater.

Petty Officer George Forney has been stationed at Bainbridge, Maryland, since entering the service in June, 1943. He is teaching Physics to Annapolis candidates.

Lt. Kathryn Wagaman entered the Army Nurse Corps in January, 1944. She was sent to Camp Meade, Md., and then to Indiantown Gap. She is now serving overseas in the European war theater.

Robert D. Fidler entered the Merchant Marine service in June, 1944, and holds the rank of Assistant Purser. He received eighteen weeks' training at Sheepshead Bay, N. Y., and is now at sea, assigned to the S.S. Reaper.

Lt. (j.g.) Miriam Waltemyer entered the WAVES in July, 1943. She received her commission at Smith College, Northampton, Mass., and was then assigned to the Office of Naval Procurement in Philadelphia, where she is now stationed.

T. Sgt. Robert Diehl received his basic infantry training at Camp Wheeler, Ga., and was stationed there from February, 1942, until July, 1944. He was in charge of personnel records. From there he was sent to Camp Ruckner, Ala., and in October, 1944, he went overseas and is now serving in the European war theater.

Miss Ruth McIlhenny has a leave of absence due to illness.

SENIOR ADVISERS

MISS SCOTT

MR. WOLF

MRS. HEINTZELMAN

During the first three years of our high school days, Miss Scott and Mr. Wolf served us faithfully in every way. They were always understanding and helpful in the various situations that arose. At the beginning of our senior year, Miss Scott became the dramatic coach, and was forced to resign as our adviser. Mrs. Heintzelman assumed the responsibility, and she and Mr. Wolf have led us to a successful finish of our high school career. To all of them we extend our sincerest appreciation for the fine leadership they have given us.

1944 FOOTBALL

With only a few lettermen returning from the winless season of 1943, Gettysburg High School's football hopes were not very high. As it happened, the team ran true to form. During the season only one game of eight was won. The team at times showed great ability on the defense but was finally overcome by superior manpower. One of the highlights of the season was a 90 yd. runback of an intercepted pass by Dick Fidler for a touchdown against Waynesboro.

The Junior Varsity squad had a fairly successful season in winning one, losing two, and tying two

FOOTLOOSE

Family troubles form the basis of the three act comedy, "Footloose." Emily Early is a domineering mother who tries to arrange her children's lives to suit her own taste. The children rebel and, after many arguments, persuade Emily and her husband, Richard, to take a trip. Hope, the oldest daughter, takes charge and tries to guide the family over one pitfall after another.

Everything turns out nicely in the end, as the Earlys return home to find their family well able to take care of themselves.

The play, directed by Miss Ruth McHenry and Miss Ruth Scott, was presented by the Mask and Wig for the benefit of the Red Cross.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

WHAT A LIFE

A three act comedy "What a Life" brought the trials and tribulations of Henry Aldrich to the Gettysburg High School auditorium. The misadventures Henry is a typical high school boy who is continually confounding everyone including his parents and Mr. Bradley, the high school principal. Henry's attempt to ask Barbara Pearson for a date are complicated by the presence of George Bigelow, a concerted, athletic student, and the results prove to be very amusing.

Stolen band instruments and a romance between Mr. Bradley's secretary and Mr. Nelson, the assistant principal, serve to further complicate the plot.

The play was presented by the Mask and Wig and was directed by Miss Ruth Scott. Receipts from the play were used to purchase stage lighting equipment.

ONLY AN ORPHAN GIRL

An old fashioned melodrama came to the Gettysburg High School auditorium in the senior class production, "Only an Orphan Girl." Employing all the melodramatic devices such as leaning, "asides," restrained actions, the play centers about the efforts of Arthur Rutherford, the villain from the city, to secure the inherited fortune of Nellie, the orphan girl.

Luckily for the beautiful heroine, a stalwart farm lad is in the nick of time to protect her from the villain's advances. But Arthur and his fair wife Ethel, stop at nothing, not even murder, to secure the fortune. It takes all the efforts of the hero, Dick Perkins, and the intervention of the neighbor farmin' woman, Amy Appleby, to finally settle matters.

The play was the first of its type to be presented in Gettysburg High School and was directed by Miss Ruth Scott. Receipts helped defray expenses of the Cannon-Aid.

1. Famous Arbor Day speaker (any resemblance to Gitlin?)
2. Who's that on the front walk?
3. Those attentive seniors
4. Are they yours, Jack?
5. Please note below, Pink
6. Weary peddler
7. TOTAL war
8. Big Jake, bracelet and all
9. Concentrating—on what?
10. If you recognize yourself notify "Eds"
11. Look lonesome, don't they?
12. Why the front seat?
13. "Now breathe deep"
14. What's the attraction?
15. It couldn't be that bad
16. Fire?
17. Big Bill!?
18. Hit that ball
19. Blurred-eye view
20. When day is done
